Prime Minister Boris Johnson Destined to be Churchill Number 2

I am proud to have met P M Boris Johnson

London, 08.08.2022, 08:58 Time

USPA NEWS - The outgoing Prime Minister Boris Johnson had all the hallmarks of what it takes to make history and to be ranked alongside Britain's greatest prime ministers; the likes of Sir Clement Attlee, Baroness Margaret Thatcher and his idol and inspirational role model Sir Winston Churchill, said Shazada Hayat President UICF (UK) and international community welfare campaigner.

The outgoing British prime minister threw the great opportunity all away over three costly mistakes. The first mistake, which was the catalyst was when PM Boris Johnson allowed his senses to give way to his emotions, just as Mark Anthony of Rome did and fell for Cleopatra of Egypt, which proved to be costly for him and Rome. During the Covid Pandemic Prime Minister Boris Johnson told every member of the British public to stay safe and stay at home and no one was to visit anyone, as we were all under lockdown. Prime Minister Boris Johnson's former secretary Carrie Symonds, then managed to get the prize guy and became Carrie Symonds Johnson. She threw a surprise birthday party for PM Boris Johnson, when she was fully aware and knew full well, that it was a wrong thing to do, as her husband, Prime Minister Boris Johnson, has just put the entire nation under Covid-19 Lockdown. Many would describe this action by Carrie Symonds Johnson as nothing less than treachery, or a kiss of death for Boris Johnson disguised as a kiss of love. The short lived birthday celebration became Boris Johnson's political "Death Day," at the hands of Carrie Symonds Johnson.

The second grave mistake by Prime Minister Boris Johnson was when he supported the despicable member of parliament Neil Parish MP who was caught watching filthy pornography in the noble sacred chamber of the great British Parliament. This MP should have been thrown out of parliament imminently, by the scruff of his neck and banned for life from entering public buildings for his gross contempt.

Most catastrophically PM Boris Johnson stood solidly behind Chancellor Rishi Sunak when he was embroiled with a British tax evasion scandal. Prime Minister Boris Johnson, despite the majority of Britain asking him to sack Rishi Sunak for shaming the office of the British Chancellor of the exchequer, he remained loyal to a man who has proved to be most disloyal to him. Rishi Sunak proved to be not just disloyal, but has also stabbed Boris Johnson with a blunt instrument in the back, said Shazada Hayat.

We can all from time to time have reservations and great regrets but these three regrets will haunt Boris Johnson for the rest of his life. Many in Boris Johnson's camp or even Prime Minister Boris Johnson himself could be forgiven for comparing the treachery of British Rishi Sunak's action to that suffered by Jesus, at the hands of Judas. Prime Minister Boris Johnson despite Rishi Sunak's background plucked this British Indian out of nowhere to give him the second most powerful job in Britain. One just needs to look at how Rishi Sunak paid back the greatest gratitude and gift from the British Prime Minister. Prime Minister Boris Johnson when looking back on reflection will see that he has devastatingly miscalculated by putting his neck on the guillotine, for those who were the actual ones who released the guillotine blade on his neck. The great British saying is, "A leopard never changes his spots". Boris Johnson made the fatal mistake by putting his trust and the trust of the nation in the wrong hands.

There are vast differences in the psyche of Boris Johnson and Rishi Sunak as to where their loyalty really lies. PM Boris Johnson, a diehard admirer of his hero and idol Sir Winston Churchill and at the other end of the spectrum, where almost every Indian hates with vengeance Sir Winston Churchill. How can Rishi Sunak be an exception with his strict Indian upbringing, which has carved him to be what he is and stands for. It is naturally that his loyalty is to his faith and the Indian upbringing and follower of the old school. There are three things that stand out as to why the majority of the Indians, whether in India or overseas, hate Sir Winston Churchill for eternity. The first being in 1943 Sir Winston Churchill ordered and diverted food grain to Europe instead of to the desperate people of Bengal state in India.

As a result, hundreds of thousands of Indians died of starvation. The second point of hate is when Sir Winston Churchill refused to meet the Father of the Indian Nation, by stating that he did not wish to meet a Fakir (Beggar). This has hurt the people of India profoundly and will not forgive Churchill for this grave insult.

The third point of hate for the Indian nation is that they blame Sir Winston Churchill for carving out India, which created an independent Pakistan. They blame Sir Winston Churchill for doing this to India, as a punishment for asking for independence of India, the true patriotic faithful Indian will never forgive Sir Winston Churchill, said Shazada Hayat.

Boris Johnson took on the unbeatable Labour Mayor Ken Livingstone and became the Conservative Mayor of London. Boris Johnson single handily took on Europe and achieved Brexit, rightly or wrongly which is a different matter, but nevertheless he was victorious. Then taking the Conservative Party into the general election and winning a landslide historic victory, which has never been achieved since the times of Margaret Thatcher.

I am proud to have met Prime Minister Boris Johnson who commended me for my services to Britain and the community. One thing I wish to state in conclusion for Rishi Sunak is that Britain is a nation that is very tolerant and understanding they may forgive many things but treachery is something the true British and Britain never forgets. The sentence for treachery still remains harsh in Britain. Therefore, Rishi Sunak must not be surprised if the true patriotic British vote for Liz Truss as the Prime Minister of Britain and not him. Boris Johnson, being a fighter in his last question time said, "Hasta la vista, baby!" This means to be me, that Boris Johnson will be back, even if it is to make accountable those who committed, as far as he is concerned treachery.
